THE UNIVERSITY OF LEEDS

WOLE SOYINKA RESEARCH SCHOLARSHIP

School of English

Please note this scholarship is open to citizens of any African nation

Closing Date: 1 May 2005

In honour of one of our most prestigious alumni, and as part of its continued efforts in maintaining and strengthening our important relationship with Africa, the School of English is pleased to announce, during the Centenary Year of the University of Leeds, the establishment of the Wole Soyinka Scholarship. This prestigious new scholarship is in support of doctoral research study in the School of English, commencing in October 2005, for a period of three years.

Wole Soyinka, the first African to win the Nobel Prize for Literature, gained a BA in English from the University of Leeds in 1957, having previously studied in his homeland Nigeria. A fearless advocate of democracy and human rights, he has become one of Africa's most respected playwrights, novelists and thinkers, and has had over 40 works published which draw on both his Nigerian background and Western culture. The author of the BBC's Reith Lectures in 2004, he is Emeritus Woodruff Professor of Arts at Emory University, Atlanta, and received an honorary DLitt from the University of Leeds in 1973.

The School of English has for many years enjoyed strong links with Africa and welcomed outstanding African students who have pursued their studies across a wide range of literary and cultural fields.

The Scholarship covers annual tuition fees for three years of study (£8,318 for international students - Session 2005/06) and also provides an annual maintenance grant of £7000.

Eligibility Criteria:

- applicants must be citizens of any African nation
- applicants must hold a First Class BA honours degree in English or a related discipline and a distinctive level of achievement at MA level, or equivalent
- students must wish to pursue doctoral research in any specialist field within the School of English
- students must meet the University's English Language standard (if English is not your first language)
- students must be able to commence PhD study on 1 October 2005

We would encourage all students to apply early enough to also be considered for the ORS awards (deadline January 2005). Information on the ORS Competition will be available from mid-November at: <http://www.leeds.ac.uk/rds/schol/ors-info.htm>.

Application Process:

Further Information and Application Forms can be obtained after mid-November from Ms Louise Ward, Postgraduate Officer in the School of English (i.e. ward@leeds.ac.uk) or from the web at: <http://www.leeds.ac.uk/rds/schol/wsr-info.htm> or from the School of English's webpages <http://www.leeds.ac.uk/english/>.
