Speakers:

We have two leading lights in Life Sciences who have agreed to answer your questions. Professor Mike Ferguson from University of Dundee and David Dodd, CEO of Serologicals. Both have had highly successful careers in this sector - one in academia and the other in business. This is your chance to learn from others experience and find out what the challenges and opportunities are out there in the workplace. This should be an afternoon of insights and information to help you along your own career path.

The format of this event is similar to question time and students are requested to register on line at www.biodundee.co.uk at which point they will be asked to submit a question to the panel, if they so wish.

Local radio personality Ally Ballingall will act as presenter for this event
