Tell Me Lies

Propaganda & Media Distortion in the Attack on Iraq

Edited by David Miller

‘If you suspect that the media have not told you the full truth about the Iraq War, read this book. It is a revelation.’ James Curran, Goldsmiths College, University of London

Did the US and UK governments lie about weapons of mass destruction to promote an attack on Iraq? Did the media hold them to account or act as cheerleaders for war?

Tell Me Lies reveals the systematic propaganda used by both the US and UK governments to convince us of the ‘threat’ from Iraq. It shows how we were deliberately misled into a war that has resulted in a humanitarian disaster in Iraq and threatens to create further instability and resentment of the US and UK throughout the Middle East.

Written by some of the world’s leading journalists and commentators, Tell Me Lies is a scathing indictment of the role of the mainstream media in legitimising government actions and undermining dissent. Critics, activists and journalists from both sides of the Atlantic explore alternatives such as the internet and al-Jazeera and provide analysis and guidance on resisting the media war. David Miller

David Miller is a member of the Stirling Media Research Institute. His books include Don't Mention the War: Northern Ireland, Propaganda and the Media (Pluto, 1994), The Circuit of Mass Communication: Media Strategies, Representation and Audience Reception in the AIDS Crisis (Sage, 1998, co-author), Market Killing: What Capitalism Does and What Social Scientists Can do about it (Longman, 2001, co-author) and Open Scotland?: Lobbyists, Journalists and Spin Doctors (Polygon, 2001, co-author). He is currently writing a book on global public relations and corporate power.
