

Zoo and Wildlife Conservation is a new Community Interest Company (so a Not-for-Profit Organisation) that works to protect, understand and conserve Endangered Species in Africa and South America.

We do this by facilitating and supporting UK and home-range students often working together to undertake priority research identified by our conservation partners. This means that our students see the impact of their work through publication and practical outcomes.

ZWC works with students to find funding for their projects by running scholarship schemes where we fully fund the field costs or support in the application of external funding.

In addition, Dr Matt Hartley our CEO is a FHEA and will co-supervise students and support them in the field.

Project costs start at £3000 including flights, accommodation and field costs.

We are looking for Academic Partners and Students to participate in our programmes. The projects and titles are on the website.

Our Projects are:

West African Primate Action, Ghana – White Naped Mangabey, Roloway Monkey,

Helpsimus, Madagascar – Bamboo, Red Bellied and Woolly lemurs, Ring-Tailed Vontisira

Giraffe Conservation Foundation, Namibia- Giraffe and Black Rhino

Para La Tierra , Paraguay – Black & Gold Howler Monkey, Chaco Owl

Nai Conservation, Costa Rica – Baird's Tapir

Leito Wildlife Reserve, Ecuador- Mountain Tapir, Puma and Spectacled Bears
